

Department of English and Humanities
Mid-Term Assignment
ENG110: Literature for Life (Sec-1)
Spring 2026
Faculty Initial: TAY

Submission: Turnitin Total Marks: 25 Deadline: 04.04.2026

SECTION A

Answer any two from the following questions within 700-800 words: (10x2=20)

- 1) Based on your readings from Jamaica Kincaid's "Girl", Yasmin Alibhai Brown's The Settler's Cookbook and Rabindranath Tagore's My Boyhood Days, how do the texts portray the influence of speakers' mothers on their socio-cultural understanding of patriarchy? Provide relevant examples.
- 2) Do you think Margaret Cavendish's The Blazing World and Antoine de Saint-Exupéry's The Little Prince navigate around the importance of empathy, friendship and love to show the evolution of the 'self' through adventure? If so, provide references from the texts to support your arguments.
- 3) What central metaphor do the speakers in "Emperor of Ice-cream" and "Chickpea to Cook" use to celebrate the inevitability of death? Explain with specific examples and relevant reasoning.
- 4) How do you think fables and nonsensical literature act as a critique against authoritative figures of society? Based on your readings of Sukumar Ray's poems and Aesop's fables, choose two of the texts from each of their works to provide specific examples.

SECTION B

General Guidelines for the VIVA (1×5=5) You will be asked five questions based on the syllabus.

Two of the questions will showcase your reflection on the assignment work to judge your critical thinking based on your writing.

Three of the questions will be based on the discussions of the texts in class.
