

Instructions for the Final for Ethical Leadership Course

There will be one group activity done as a group of three members, interviewing someone in a leadership position and then sharing your findings as a short presentation. You will also be writing and submitting one brief reflection paper done individually submitted on the day of the presentation. The handwritten reflection paper will focus on your overall experience working with your fellow groupmates and what specific things you contributed to the works. You should be honest, critically evaluate yourself and your groupmates, and be specific in this write-up.

Look at the schedule at the end to check which component will be required to be completed by which specific dates and the points they carry.

A. Group work details

- You will need to find a person who is in a leadership position and assign a specific date and time for an interview with them. The person can be in-charge of a grocery store where he/she supervises a couple of people, they can be CEOs of large companies, they can be coordinators of programs, they can be managers and so on.
- You will need to create a checklist of the logistics and a questionnaire of at least 10 questions to ask about their jobs, positions, the ethical issues they face in the roles of their professions, how they resolve them etc.
- The choice of the person and the questionnaire must be approved by discussing with me before you contact the people and arrange the interview.
- All the group members must be present during the interview and ask questions to the interviewee.
- The interview must be recorded as an audio file, and the audio file will be submitted on google classroom on the tab for the finals. Only one person from the group should submit the audio recording.

- There will be a specific date for the presentation where you will share your learning with the class on a slide based short presentation of 3 to 5 minutes as a group.
